She's brought in new clients and practice areas to the firm, done excellent work for those clients, and been a role model for the younger lawyers here. We're honored that she's chosen to practice law with us and are proud to include her in the partnership."

Carmen stated "I am delighted that Anderson & Kreiger has given me its full vote of confidence by having me join them as a partner. I could not have asked for a greater group of people to work with: talented lawyers who care deeply about their clients, but also about public service, social justice, and who commit themselves, time and time again, to many causes that benefit society and those without a voice. I look forward to contributing all of my very best to the firm."
