

Insurance Litigation

Anderson & Kreiger's insurance litigators represent insurance companies, claims administrators, reinsurers, agents and brokers in a range of insurance coverage, bad faith and reinsurance disputes. With a pronounced reputation for handling high-stakes insurance coverage and bad faith matters, our insurance litigators' handle legal proceedings across the construction, environmental, higher education, real estate and transportation industries, in addition to conducting appeals and trials on behalf of towns and municipalities.

A&K attorneys are known for looking ahead and leading the way on emerging insurance litigation trends. For instance, our lawyers were the first to successfully argue multi-year, multi-layer coverage for complex asbestos and environmental claims. We also lead the way for precedent-setting cases in cyber-coverage, "sick building," toxic tort, construction and sexual abuse coverage suits, among other novel areas of law.
